Samuel, 12-year-old has recently been referred by his school. The child had been from an abusive household after being with his father and stepmother, both of whom were reported for physical and emotional abuse. The child is now living in a temporary child care center, and the child protection team is working on his psychosocial support plan. Samuel exhibits signs of trauma such as withdrawal, frequent nightmares, difficulty trusting adults, and displays aggressive behavior when engaged with others. The team needs to implement a psychosocial support plan to address Samuel's emotional and mental health, as well as his adjustment to the new living.
